French Foreign Legion: Mines And Booby Traps. The sweltering jungle maze of Vietnam has long witnessed the death of many a man due to ingenious and strategically placed mines and booby traps. And in their fight with the Viet Minh, members of the French Foreign Legion often became the targets of just such devastating devices. Now comes a replication of the original French manual, translated into English, which the Legion devised to help their men detect and disarm antipersonnel and antivehicular mines and booby traps. Fragmentation and electrical antipersonnel mines, hand grenades, charges, underwater mines and various fuses are some of the devises covered in this guide to what mines look like and how they work. Each device is illustrated, and safety and neutralizing procedures are included so that you can avoid the life-threatening peril that mines and booby traps can pose.

For example, in this 264 page book are:

- 11 devices for listening through the walls
- expert ways to secretly bug any target
- consumer's guide to exotic electronic bugs
- improving existing transmitters and "ears"
- how to see in the dark for $179
- over 100 sources for equipment
- evaluations of countermeasure equipment
- source guide to assembling superspy systems
- how polygraphs work—and can be tricked
- technological updates on lockpicking
- how to organize/run an intelligence war
- getting a 50 state credit/license search
- the voice lie detector and ways to beat it

Your peace of mind is worth the price of this book!

SPECIAL NOTICE

You must be 21 years of age or older to purchase this equipment.

When using weapons which fire paint pellets always wear goggles and respect the safety of others. Never point weapons at other individual's faces. When competing, never fire upon others unless they are wearing protective goggles and appropriately dressed. Paint pellets should not be used at temperatures below 40 degrees as they may solidify and become dangerous on impact. As with any weapon, always be mindful of your own safety and that of others.
